INDEPENDENT PUBLISHING CO.
HELENA, MONTANA

INTRODUCTION

This list of books for school libraries was first prepared in 1912 by G. A. Ketcham then Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, now principal of the Missoula County High School. In this reprint of the catalog, books now out of print have been eliminated and additional books published since 1912 have been added. Due to the excellence of the list as prepared by Mr. Ketcham no other revision has been attempted.

MAY TRUMPER.

PREFACE

Schools without a library should be as rare as those without a dictionary, a blackboard, or a map. Every district has a library fund which should be expended each year for additional books.

No attempt has been made to include a complete list of high school or teachers' books altho a few appear. No books for general reading for adults have been listed as school library funds should not be used for purchasing such books. The books listed are recommended for certain grades. The person selecting books from this catalog should keep in mind that a child's appreciation of literature is not always determined by the grade to which he may belong. Children from homes in which much reading is done are likely to enjoy books listed for higher grades than are children of the same age from homes where no reading is done. The same comparison may be made of children who have never had access to a public library and those who have been more fortunate in this respect.

The need of more story books for children in lower grades cannot be overemphasied. Too many school libraries are furnished much more liberally for the upper grades than for lower grades. If both cannot be well supplied, it is far more important to furnish books for the lower grades first. It is in the first years of school that a desire to read can be most easily created, but it cannot be done without a generous supply of appropriate reading material. In our best schools first and second grade children read as many as twenty different readers and story books in one school year.

The list is arranged alphabetically by both titles and authors. Under the name of each author is given a list of all works by that author included in the list. Brief explanatory notes for the guidance of purchasers have been in most cases appended under the titles of the books.

The law provides that the county superintendent shall be consulted in the purchase of library books.

It is hoped that the publication of this catalog will stimulate interest in the school library, especially in rural districts and that trustees will be inclined to appropriate money, not only as provided by law, but liberally as the finances of the district will at all warrant.

How to Order

It is recommended that in purchasing libraries all books be ordered from a distributing firm such as John W. Graham & Co., Spokane, Washington; A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, Illinois, or the St. Paul Book & Stationery Co., St. Paul, Minnesota; thus securing the same discount and lessening freight charges. Districts wishing to order only a few books should place their orders with the county superintendent to be combined with orders from other districts, or separate arrangements may be made between adjoining districts. The name of the publisher of each book should be included in the order for the purpose of avoiding misunderstanding in cases of two companies publishing different books by the same title.

The price quoted is the publisher's list price. This is subject to a discount as explained on pages 6-8. The list prices quoted will probably be unreliable soon after they are printed. They are inserted chiefly to furnish some idea of the relative cost of different books.

Care of Books

Every book purchased for a school library should be neatly labeled as being the property of the school district. Most of the county superintendents are glad to furnish a printed gummed label for this purpose. Every teacher should keep an accurate account of books loaned, to whom and when loaned, in order that none may be lost.

Thruout the catalog certain books are referred to as Montana adoptions. The contract price of these books may be found by referring to the price list of adopted textbooks. After the expiration of the present contract for these books, it is reasonable to suppose that their prices will be raised unless there is a reduction in the cost of manufacturing.

Following is a list of all publishers whose names appear in this catalog. First is given the full name of the firm, then, in parenthesis, the abbreviation employed in the following pages, and thereafter the terms of discount offered by each publisher. The prices quoted are subject to change.

CHAPTER XII

School Libraries

1200. Library Fund.—A library fund is hereby created, and the board of school trustees must expend the library fund, together with such moneys as may be added thereto by donation, in the purchase of books for a school library, including books for supplementary work; provided, that in school districts in which a free public library is maintained, such library fund may, in the discretion of the board of trustees, be used for the payment of the current expenses for maintenance of the schools; provided, also, that with the approval of the county superintendent of schools a surplus in the library fund, after furnishing all necessary reference works and library books, may be spent for other needed equipment. Approved March 10, 1919.

1201. Districts of the Third Class.—In districts of the third class, the library fund shall consist of not less than five nor more than ten per cent of the county fund annually apportioned to the district; provided, that if such ten per cent exceed fifty dollars, fifty dollars only shall be apportioned to the district.

1202. Districts of the First and Second Classes.—In districts of the first and second classes the library fund shall consist of a sum not to exceed fifty dollars for every five hundred children or major fraction thereof, between the ages of six and twenty-one years, annually taken from the general school fund of the county apportioned to such district.

1203. Location and Control of Libraries.—The library shall be under the control of the board of trustees and must be kept, when practicable, in the schoolhouse, and shall be for the use of the pupils and all residents of the district.

1204. Rules. Reports.—The trustees shall be held accountable for the proper care and preservation of the library, and shall make all needful rules and regulations not provided for by the superintendent of public instruction, and not inconsistent therewith; and they shall report annually to the county superintendent all library statistics which may be required by the blanks furnished for the purpose by the superintendent of public instruction.

1205. Selection of Books.—All books shall be selected by the county superintendent and school trustees, acting together, from lists approved by the superintendent of public instruction. It shall be the duty of the county superintendent in his visits to inspect the library and to make such suggestions regarding its use and care as he may deem advisable.

It shall be the duty of the superintendent of public instruction to formulate rules and regulations for the school libraries and furnish to the county superintendent from time to time such instruction and information as will make the use of the library most effective.
